Disclaimer

Medical knowledge is constantly changing. As new information becomes available, changes in recommended treatment, procedures, equipment and the use of drugs become necessary. The contributors and publishers have, as far as possible, taken every care to ensure that the information contained in this website is as accurate and up-to-date as possible at the time of publication. However, readers are strongly advised to confirm that the information, especially with regard to drug usage, complies with current legislation and accepted standards of practice. Neither the contributors, nor Family Planning NSW accepts any responsibility for complications that may arise as a result of any health practitioners or individual acting on the advice and recommendations it contains.
